Suspect caught, charged with murder

Lexington man nabbed in Ohio

By Meaghan Downs
News staff

Police arrested homicide suspect Gary Luttrell in Ohio Tuesday morning and charged him with one count murder in the death of a Lawrenceburg man.

Kentucky State Police had been searching over the weekend and into Monday and Tuesday for the Lexington man — described as armed and dangerous by police — regarding his connection to an ongoing homicide investigation in western Anderson County.

Gary Luttrell, 39, of Lexington, is a suspect in the death of Steven Edward Briscoe, 54, of 1433 Fairview Road, who died of a single gunshot wound to the chest Sept. 14, Wilson said Monday.

According to Kentucky state police spokeswoman Kendra Wilson, Chillicothe police arrested Luttrell without incident at a residence on Madison Avenue in Chillicothe, Ohio, at 10:33 a.m. Tuesday morning.

Luttrell is currently being held in the Ross County jail and, after completing the extradition process, will be transported to Anderson County to face murder charges, Wilson said.

Minority student information improperly accessed

Mom angered when daughter brings home request for grad student's research

By Meaghan Downs
News staff

Anderson County school officials have admitted that an administrator improperly accessed personal information on 70 to 80 minority students, angering at least one mother and prompting changes to the district's policies over who can access student information.

Karen Harris said her daughter's personal information was improperly accessed through the district's internal student information system Infinite Campus because a graduate student needed a list of African American and bi-racial students to interview to complete his master's degree.

Harris said middle school administrators called her daughter out of class on Aug. 22, handing the student a letter to give to her parents when she got home from school.

The letter — the cover stamped with the name and address of the Anderson County High School — explained that Paul Blackhurst, a graduate student at Eastern Kentucky University, would be conducting a study of African American and bi-racial children's perceptions of the police in rural communities.

Blackhurst is also currently the school resource officer for the high school.

Participation is voluntary, the signed letter said, and attached to the letter was a parent and guardian permission form approved by Eastern Kentucky University's Internal Review Board.

Superintendent Sheila Mitchell said in an e-mail to Harris that she gave Blackhurst approval to send permission slips home to all students, but later found out that Director of Student Services Derek Shouse ran a list of students based

Chief says unclear if teen suspect had ill intent

By Meaghan Downs

A 19-year-old Lawrenceburg man was arrested by city police Monday morning after a middle school staff member spotted him carrying a shotgun while crossing Anderson County Middle School property.

William Whetzel, 19, 1042 Dan Drive was arrested and charged with one count of carrying a concealed deadly weapon and two counts of unlawful possession of a weapon on school property.

A middle school staff member noticed Whetzel, who was openly carrying a shotgun in a soft case as well as a gasoline can, crossing the middle school property at about 8 a.m. Monday, according to City Police Chief Chris Atkins.

Whetzel also had a pistol tucked into

Dozens of turtles, fish killed in county park

Deaths from Fish and Wildlife's baited nets called unusual

By Meaghan Downs

Fish and Wildlife officer David Goodlett and Jason Chesser with Parks and Recreation maintenance, with the assistance of Officer Brian Wooldridge, tossed back the fish they found wriggling among the dead last Thursday.

They were able to save one small turtle that quickly ducked beneath lake weeds and disappeared from sight.

Goodlett initially estimated last Thursday that there were about 500 total dead fish and turtles caught in the three commercial fishing nets placed in the middle of the Anderson County community park lake.

Goodlett has been getting complaints of indi-his jacket, Atkins said. The staff member immediately notified school resource officer Joe Saunier, who arrested Whetzel on Saffell Street and Whetzel was taken to the Shelby County Detention Center. Whetzel was not on Saffell Street Elementary property, Atkins said. Atkins said he could not confirm if Whetzel had any intention of doing anybody any harm until further investigation. It appeared that Whetzel did not have motivations to harm students or residents, Atkins said Monday. Superintendent Sheila Mitchell said a One Call notification went out to parents to inform them of the morning incident. "A staff member saw a suspicious person hurriedly passing through Anderson County Middle School grounds this morning after school was in session and the building was secure," Mitchell said in an e-mailed statement. "The staff member immediately alerted the school resource officer who along with local law enforcement apprehended the person quickly off school property. Local law enforcement is currently investigating. Anderson County staff and local law enforcement responded quickly. Student and staff safety continues to be our top priority."

Lawrenceburg man killed in Shelbyville wreck

Landmark Media Services
For the second time in less than a week, a traffic accident on Sept. 12 has claimed a life in Shelby County, this time, 57-year-old James Walker of Lawrenceburg. A second man, Jonathan Denning, 28, of New Albany, Ind., was taken to the University of Louisville with unknown injuries. The accident happened at about 11 a.m. in the 7400 block of Frankfort Road, as Denning, who was driving east in a Freightliner dump truck, lost control of the vehicle when he lost tire tread, KSP spokesperson Kendra Wilson said. The dump truck veered into the westbound lane, striking head-on a Ford pickup driven by Walker. Wilson said both trucks ran off the road, striking a culvert, and the dump truck overturned, landing on top of the pickup truck. Shelby County Chief Deputy Coroner Jeff Ivers, who pronounced Walker dead at the scene, said that the deceased man had to be extricated from his vehicle by the Waddy Fire Department. Lt. James Riddle, who was in charge of that, said it was very difficult extrication. "It ranks right up in the top ten worst that I've seen in 33 years," he said. "We had to use two wreckers to pick the dump truck up off the pickup truck, and then we were able to use our extrication tools to remove the deceased from the pickup truck." Riddle said the situation also presented an environmental hazard because the dump truck spilled contaminated dirt that had come from the site of Cubert's Qwik Stop in Shelbyville, where fuel tanks were being removed.

viduals illegally taking and re-selling catfish to pay lakes for the last two years, and initially thought the nets were the result of the same people.

In reality, the baited nets were placed in the community park lake as part of a sampling study with Kentucky Fish and Wildlife, according to a biologist with the department. Dane Balsman, fisheries biologist with Kentucky Fish and Wildlife, said he uses the baited hoop nets to check for length and weight of catfish in many of the 39 lakes participating in the Fishing in Neighborhoods program.

This was the first time Balsman had sampled the Anderson County community park lake with the nets to get an idea of stocking rates.

Balsman said they set the net for 72 hours, and typically, no catfish or other wildlife are fatally trapped inside the baited nets.

Jason Chesser, parks and recreation maintenance, retrieves one of the commercial fishing nets placed in the community lake. At first thought to be the work of individuals trying to sell catfish to pay lakes, the nets were purposefully placed in the lake as part of a sampling study with Kentucky Fish and Wildlife.

What happened at during the Anderson County community park lake sampling was unusual, Balsman said. "Unfortunately sometimes we get by-catch, either other species of fish, in that case blue gill or crappie, but we get some turtles now and then," Balsman said.

Balsman estimated the total loss to be closer to 25-30 turtles, two or three catfish and about 100 blue gill. He said the decomposition of the turtles caught inside the nets may have attracted other fish. Balsman said because of the high rate of reproduction of blue gill and the lack of catfish that died in the nets, the monetary loss of stocked fish for Kentucky Fish and Wildlife was not that great. Kentucky Fish and Wildlife stock the park lake with about 800 keeper-size catfish and 1,500 trout a year, Balsman said. They restock the lake four times a on their race using Infinite Campus after Blackhurst asked for the information. Harris said she contacted Shouse to see if he could serve as an impartial third-party on the issue, and learned from Shouse (who Harris said apologized for his error) that he gave the list to Blackhurst. Mitchell confirmed Friday that Shouse was indeed the staff member who gave Blackhurst a list of students to contact for his graduate study. "I do not believe Mr. Shouse gave [Blackhurst] access for any ill intent," Mitchell said. Blackhurst said in a phone interview Monday that he believed his request to receive a list of African-American and bi-racial students from Shouse was acceptable directory information, and he said he would never have requested the information if he knew it should not be released by the district. He said he and Shouse were both under the impression that compiling a list of information based on a student's race was a matter of public record, and that requesting and receiving the list was an "honest mistake." Blackhurst said he did not conduct or complete graduate degree work while performing his duties as a school resource officer, and that the district and the Anderson County Sheriff's Office were aware of his study. "As I responded to you in letter, procedures were not followed," Mitchell wrote to Harris in her e-mail. "I have put procedures in place to ensure the access to IC [Infinite Campus] is not allowed to SROs [school resource officers]."

Harris said she was told by Mitchell that about 70-80 letters went out to middle school and high school students requesting permission for Blackhurst's study. Harris said she also received a One Call notification from the middle school, asking parents to allow their children to participate.

"Her information was improperly obtained to do that," Harris said. "[Blackhurst's] study could be about white children who live with their grandparents..." Harris said. "You can't single kids out period, especially when it has nothing to do with the school system." She said she has no problem with Blackhurst, or African American and bi-racial children as the subject of Blackhurst's study, but believes school resources were wasted and is concerned that administrators do not know what is being distributed to students. "You do need to know what you're handing out to children," Harris said.

According to Harris, who met with middle school administrators the first week of September, no one there was aware of the contents of the letter given to Harris' daughter.

Harris said she feels like her daughter was not only singled out, but that she's concerned that her information was being distributed for something not directly related to her education. "I don't have a problem with who obtained the information," Harris said. "I believe whoever gave [Blackhurst] permission to do that would be at fault."

Harris called Superintendent Mitchell about her concerns with the letter, and in a letter sent to Harris on Aug. 29, Mitchell confirmed to Harris that procedures were not followed in distributing the letter to middle and high school students, and that Mitchell was taking steps to ensure school information would be confidential.

Mitchell said in a phone interview Friday afternoon that any type of communication requested to be sent to students must be sent to her office, approved by Mitchell, then a copy of what was approved is sent to building principals to let them know that it can be sent out to students.

Mitchell said she did not see the contents of the letter sent to students regarding Blackhurst's study. She had spoken with Blackhurst over the phone and requested a copy of his request. Mitchell said there was a bad phone connection and Blackhurst may not have heard her request for a copy of his permission form to be sent to her before they were distributed to students.

Mitchell wrote in a follow-up e-mail to Harris on Sept. 6 that she was aware Blackhurst wanted to conduct research, and Mitchell thought letters regarding Blackhurst's request for parent permission would be going out to all students, not a specified group.

Mitchell and Blackhurst confirmed Friday afternoon that Blackhurst has not conducted any interviews and will

What is Infinite Campus?

Infinite Campus is an internal student information system that houses a variety of student data from grades to curriculum to assignments to student health information. Infinite Campus can be accessed by staff, students, parents and administrators, but not everyone has access to all information or data in the system. There is a student and parent portal that requires a username and password, but students and parents cannot access the same information as administrators, according to Superintendent Sheila Mitchell. Even teachers from other schools cannot access or print off reports on students in another school, and have limited entry to the system at home, Mitchell said. Mitchell said school resource officers should not have access to Infinite Campus. According to Mitchell, a previous administration allowed school resource officers to have directory only access to Infinite Campus, but school resource officers no longer have any access to the Infinite Campus. The Kentucky Department of Education mandated that all school districts statewide use Infinite Campus in 2006, according to the Infinite Campus website.

not be interviewing any Anderson County students. All similar requests for research will not be approved unless requested through the Kentucky Department of Education, Mitchell said in a follow-up e-mail sent Monday morning to The Anderson News. Harris said she plans to attend the Sept. 23 board meeting to inform school board members of what occurred. She said she would like to see all parents who received the initial written request to be interviewed for Blackhurst's study to also receive letters from Mitchell apologizing for the information breach. Mitchell said Monday that those parents that were contacted in the beginning for permission to participate in the study will be notified and that letters about the district's error are in the mail. Mitchell told Harris in an e-mail on Sept. 9 that she has informed the board of her investigation, and that she keeps the board informed of parent concerns. Mitchell said in a follow-up e-mail Monday morning that she has also consulted the district's attorney regarding the distribution of personal information and the letters sent home to students. # Bungee jumping off train trestle gets test run

News staff

Drivers crossing the Tyrone Bridge last Tuesday afternoon may have noticed something a little different about the train trestle that runs parallel to the S-shaped bridge — a group of bungee jumpers plunging willingly off the trestle into the Kentucky River.

Springfield resident Mitch Morris, general manager of Vertigo Bungee, said he and a select group of jumpers were performing some test jumps, testing equipment and finishing part of the deck on the Young's High Bridge last week.

Investors bought Young's High Bridge back in 2012 with the intention of making Anderson County the premier destination for bungee jumping in North America and possibly the center of a reality show, according to an Anderson News report.

According to Morris and the Vertigo Bungee website, Young's High Bridge would be the tallest legal bridge jump in North America at 240 feet from the trestle to the river.

A group of eight — including bridge owners and a few of Morris' associates — jumped off Young's High Bridge about 38 times between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. last Wednesday.

Morris said he noticed their jumps, scheduled to test the safety of the equipment and potential safety hazards of those watching as drivers crossed the Tyrone Bridge, had quickly made its way onto social media platforms.

"We've been conscious of road safety through all of this; it's worked out well," Morris said of concerns about Tyrone Bridge drivers becoming distracted by the bungee jumping. "It seems that traffic isn't heavy enough that it's going to be a problem."

According to Anderson County 911 dispatch supervisor Todd Sparrow, dispatch received a few calls about the bungee jumping last Wednesday, but phone calls were scattered and callers did not seem panicked.

Although Young's High Bridge probably won't see bungee action until later in 2014, Morris said, he may allow VIP members to jump occasionally before officially opening the bridge to bungee club members.

He still plans on scheduling jumps in 2014 around major holidays and events, but participation will still be arranged by signing up with Vertigo Bungee's club at info@vertigobungee.net.

SHOOTING

According to a press release provided by the Chillicothe Gazette, Kentucky state police contacted the Chillicothe police department about Luttrell, who had family ties in the Chillicothe area.

Chillicothe police received information early Tuesday morning that Luttrell's vehicle was located at a hotel in Warren County, Ohio.

Video surveillance at that hotel showed Luttrell getting into a vehicle owned by a subject who lives on Madison Avenue in Chillicothe, the Chillicothe police's press release said.

According to Anderson

County 911 dispatch supervisor Todd Sparrow, a passerby noticed Saturday morning that Briscoe's horses had gotten loose and went to Briscoe's residence to tell him.

The passerby found Briscoe lying in his driveway and called 911, Anderson County Coroner Dr. Mark Tussey said Saturday.

Deputy Coroner Steve Votaw pronounced Briscoe dead at 11:05 a.m., Tussey said.

Police are not releasing information as to how many shots were fired, Wilson said.

The suspect's wife, Leslie M. Luttrell, 39, of Lexington, was believed to have been visiting Briscoe at the time of the shooting on Saturday, Wilson said.

Considered a missing person and thought to be possibly injured, according to a state police news release, Leslie Luttrell contacted Nelson County 911 on Sept. 15 and said she had escaped from her husband.

She was found unharmed in the Shepherdsville area and was interviewed by detectives at Post 12 on Sunday, according to the release.

The Anderson County Coroner's Office, Anderson County sheriff's office and Kentucky State Police spent most of last Saturday photographing and processing the scene at Fairview Road, Tussey said.

Anderson County EMS also responded to the scene.

He said he believes Briscoe lived the Fairview Road resi-

Daughter, son-in-law earned each other

"Shallow men believe in luck or in circumstance. Strong men believe in cause and effect."

—Ralph Waldo Emerson

Since giving my youngest daughter's hand in marriage last Friday afternoon, I've thought a lot about the idea of being lucky.

I've never been one to believe in luck, and often bristle when I hear that so and so is "lucky" because he has a good job or a nice home or whatever.

Aside from the silver-spoon crowd, very few people who are comfortable financially or have good-paying jobs have those things because they're lucky, just as very few who have neither are in their position because they are somehow "less fortunate."

Instead, most people living well are doing so because they've worked off their ever-loving butts, while the so-called less fortunate, in many cases, simply have not.

To some that's a warped worldview bordering on callous. Perhaps, but like so many others, I've gone from irritated to downright angry at seeing tax dollars go to buy otherwise able-bodied people everything from an "Obama" phone to food stamps that can be used to buy items ranging from Red Bull to chewing gum.

Less fortunate does not equate to lazy, and too many people today claim the former to justify the latter.

Back to my daughter's wedding. After walking her down the aisle and holding my wife's hand during what turned out to be a beautiful ceremony, I retreated to the restroom to gather my thoughts for the pending father-of-the-bride toast.

I'm a writer not a talker, so when asked to give that toast with almost no time to preplan what I'd say, I hit a stall, closed the door and tried to figure out something to say that didn't sound too corny. Or, in the vernacular of my 13-year-old, lame.

My initial thought caught me off guard: how lucky I was that my daughter chose such a great man to be her husband.

That luck entered my mind is understandable, given that had they not both enlisted in the Air Force and been stationed in South Dakota, odds of them ever meeting, let alone marrying, would be somewhere in the one in a million range.

But there had to be more to it than that, so as I sat on a toilet seat hoping not to wrinkle my tuxedo pants (or get them wet), I thought of the above quote from Emerson that I've repeated to myself about a million times as I tried to navigate life's choppy seas.

Emerson is right when he says strong men (and I'll most certainly add women) should believe in cause and effect instead of relying on circumstances to provide their big break in life.

My daughter, who fought her way through her own challenges as a teenager before getting healthy and joining the Air Force in 2009, heard a variation of that time and again as a child. That she — not the unseen or unknowable "they" — was responsible for all the successes or failures she would have in life, and instead of looking for others to blame when things go wrong, blame yourself, fix what happened and get up the next morning and kick life squarely in the crotch.

I didn't understand then what I do now, though, that hampering her with that lesson for 18 years would produce a young woman who would demand no less from the person with whom she chose to spend the rest of her life.

Her husband, Brian, is that guy. A respectable young man from a respectable family who owns what goes on in his life, Brian is on all levels as sturdy as a slab of granite.

That he thinks my daughter hung the moon (and she, him) is even better.

No, last Friday's wedding had nothing to do with luck. From my side it was saying the right things to my kid and expecting a positive outcome.

From their side it was working hard, being responsible for their lives and doing what it takes to be ready for whatever life threw their way.

Just like everything else in their lives, they've earned what they have, which now includes each other.

One ring, two mothers

She's found strange things on the school bus.

Usually it's costume jewelry, band instruments and orphaned cleats forgotten under seats until Rita Edington walks down to clean the aisles.

Bus 27 is her bus, the only bus she ever drove for 25 1/2 years.

But once, she found a ring.

A mother's ring.

And Rita has wondered about this mother for more than a decade.

Rita never removes the gold band on her pinkie finger.

Her own "mother's ring" is embedded with three birthstones: one for July, one for February and one for August.

She's worn it for 25 years since her son, then about 19 or 20, gave it to her for Christmas.

"My daughter... I lost her at birth," Edington said in a phone interview Friday. "My middle one, Bobby, he went and had it made. And when he had it made, I didn't think he'd put his sister's on there."

Her mother's ring is nothing compared to the one she found on her bus, Rita said, a stranger's ring she found trapped between the seats.

When Rita first found the ring — studded with six birthstones and etched with the names Tim, Susan, Helen, Jason and Alex — she tried to return it to its rightful owner.

Rita said she remembers finding the ring after cleaning up her bus from taking students and chaperones on a weekend trip; it's been about eight to 10 years since then, so she doesn't recall where she drove the group or where they went on the trip.

Rita said she remembers it wasn't her regular route or her preschool route, and none of the names etched in the ring matched the names of students who rode her bus.

She said she took the ring to central office. Then she talked to the high school principal and asked that they make an announcement over the public address system at the high school to announce that someone had found a mother's ring. No one came to claim it.

For safekeeping, the mother's ring remained on Rita's bus until the end of the school

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Liberals, GOP won't protect you

To the editor:

With all due respect to Professor McHugh, his recent defense of Bush II's foreign policy provokes some questions.

Who has killed more innocent Americans — Osama bin Laden or Planned Parenthood? What's the more imminent danger to what we cherish — some tribal warlords on the other side of the planet or ACLU lawyers?

Why has so much of our blood and treasure been spent on patrolling Iraq's borders, when our government can't — or rather won't — secure our own?

As a Navy officer I deployed to the Persian Gulf during Operation Desert Fox; later I would go to Algeria as part of a team evaluating port security in the wake of the Sept. 11 attacks. Hence I shouldn't be mistaken for an ignorant Islamophile peacenik when I remind everyone that the greatest threats lie within, not without.

Were society not afflicted by liberalism we'd have relatively little to fear from terrorists, just as a sober and alert man with a shotgun has little to fear from a wild dog. What was needed to prevent the Chechen bombing of Boston was not a new high-tech cruise missile; what was needed was some politically incorrect discretion about who we let into the country.

The bunglers behind the Iraq invasion were not interested in American security; just like Hilary Clinton and John Kerry, they were interested in utopian nation-building projects, and in getting to play global policeman of a New World Order.

What have been the two long-term effects of Iraq's regime change? One, Iran's regional power and influence got a boost — at a cost to America of 4,500 dead, 35,000 wounded, and $1.7 trillion. Two, Islamic militants are now free to use Iraqi Christians for target practice. Again and again it's been demonstrated: In the Muslim world promoting democracy equals promoting sharia. This is a lesson Washington refuses to learn.

That the current occupant of the White House is no friend of ours goes without saying. But let's face facts. The Republican Party's elite cares about the ordinary Kentuckian no more than Obama does.

We mustn't put our faith in the likes of Dick "Supports Gay Marriage" Cheney; nor should we waste breath defending the spoilt brat under whom Cheney served as vice president; nor can we expect any sort of defense from a not-so-conservative GOP establishment that only exists to sell ill-planned wars and Wall Street bailouts. Whatever is to be done to preserve and protect our communities will have to be done by ourselves, through the grace of God.

McConnell, GOP letting 'families go hungry'

To the editor:

I am an American, a veteran and a patriot. I truly love my country. However, when I read my country, the richest and most powerful nation on earth, would take food out of our children's mouths, it fills me with a profound sadness and a very healthy anger. Have we as a nation grown so apathetic that we are content to ignore the working poor? Pretend they don't exist? Maybe if you just turn your head and close your eyes, they will go away.

Whether or not you choose to acknowledge them, they are here and are not going away. Enough. Where is the determination we saw in America of our illegal wars in the '60s, '70s and '90s, and onward for that matter?

Where is the passion and indignation that was on display in American hearts during the long hard fought battle for civil rights (a fight that in my mind still exists today)?

We have grown old and complacent,

This Sunday marks the beginning and the end. The autumnal equinox arrives to say goodbye to summer. It has been a remarkable summer. Across the country it was the wettest since 2004.

Those of us who lost garden plants to flooding need to come up with some solutions. I vote for raised beds. Cement blocks, rocks and old barn wood make great raised beds. If you know someone with a sawmill, those outside bark boards are really good, especially if they are cedar trees. The cedar helps repel insects. Mine lasted over 10 years.

This is the time of year to plan for next year's garden, while all the problems or successes are fresh in your mind. As soon as I can get my hands on some old barn wood I'm picking up the hammer or drill. Wood screws with corner brackets stand the test of time.

comfortable in our apathy. The GOP is letting American families go hungry.

I bet my life their children will never want for anything, other than perhaps learning the concept of compassion. A word I'm sure that is not in Mitch McConnell's vocabulary. If every working man and woman in this country would give $1 a week from their pay, there would be no more homeless people in this nation. There would be no more hungry men, women or children.

Let's go back to the streets and make our voices powerful and let them ring over Washington. It is our obligation and our duty to help our brothers and sisters who are not as fortunate as the wealthy people in this country.

We must come together as a people of the United States of America to give all Americans their opportunity to obtain happiness and restore their God-given right to live their lives in dignity.

News Hound needs a name

To the editor:

Have you considered naming the hound in the "I Found the Hound" promotion Flash, my personal favorite, or Sherlock or Ghost Rider or something?

I mean the poor guy needs a name or should just be placed in the pound and remain anonymous.

I jest, of course, because I would adopt the critter just to give him a name and let him hang out on our front porch to do whatever hounds do.

By the way, the Dairy Queen gift certificate was a great idea for boosting the searchers of the mysterious hideout of the hound in the Monday Extra edition of The Anderson News. I loved my Heath bar (minus the chocolate syrup) Blizzard very much. I also use my "I Found the Hound" mug every morning for coffee, when it isn't dirty in the dishwasher.

Thank you for letting me ramble on.

Visit booth during Kids Festival

To the editor:

My name is Mary C. Moore. I am president and founder of End The Cycle, Inc.

I was born in Frankfort. This ministry has roots in Frankfort and Lawrenceburg. My very first interview was with a lady named Shannon at The Anderson News a few years back.

End the Cycle is a two-pronged non-profit ministry that offers evangelical and outreach services to prisoners, their families and those at risk of repeating the cycle of imprisonment and the high-risk behaviors that got them there. We provide free, quality faith-based mentoring and family-strengthening programs for all those longing to end the cycle: focusing specifically on prisoners, families of prisoners and at-risk-youth, according to the endthecycle.org website.

We also help other ministries provide food, clothing and hygiene materials for homeless and needy in this area and surrounding cities. We believe that no one cares how much you know until they know how much you care.

We are participating in the 2013 Frankfort Baptist Association's Kids Festival this year and welcome everyone to come visit our booth. We want the people in our community to know about End the Cycle and the many things we offer to those in desperate and often dangerous situations.

Join us Saturday, Sept. 28 from 4-7 p.m. or the 2013 Franklin Baptist Association Kids' Festival in Frankfort at the Ash building on Riley Road in downtown Frankfort across from Buffalo Trace.

Everyone is welcome. Free games, prizes, fun events, food and more. Find our booth, mention seeing this website and get a free prize.

May the Lord bless you and prosper all that you set your hand to do today and every day.

Enjoying the fading days of summer

This Sunday marks the beginning and the end. The autumnal equinox arrives to say goodbye to summer. It has been a remarkable summer. Across the country it was the wettest since 2004.

Those of us who lost garden plants to flooding need to come up with some solutions. I vote for raised beds. Cement blocks, rocks and old barn wood make great raised beds. If you know someone with a sawmill, those outside bark boards are really good, especially if they are cedar trees. The cedar helps repel insects. Mine lasted over 10 years.

This is the time of year to plan for next year's garden, while all the problems or successes are fresh in your mind. As soon as I can get my hands on some old barn wood I'm picking up the hammer or drill. Wood screws with corner brackets stand the test of time.

This is also a good time to get some sweet deals on old manure. Those folks with horses probably have a nice pile right now and you can get truckloads for free or cheap. Put that in your bed and then cover with black plastic.

The plastic serves two purposes. It cooks the soil, killing weed seeds, and prevents new seeds from blowing in. Plus you'll be ready to plant when the time is right. An added bonus is dry soil, when we typically have a wet spring to delay plantings. You can use the plastic on the ground as well. Just use rock, brick or cement blocks to keep the plastic in place.

As the season winds down, don't forget to take care of your equipment. I use a bucket of bleach water (10 parts water, 1 part bleach) to sterilize my equipment. After 10 minutes of soaking I dry the equipment then spray them with cooking oil. That keeps the rust off.

My mower and weed eater are about to get their tune up and winterizing care, if I can quit using them long enough to get them to the shop. Care now makes it easy to start work in the spring. Besides, we never have time in the spring and the shops are always busier then.

I'm almost done with my canning and should be done sweeping the chimney by the time you read this column. I always think of Mary Poppins when I'm up on the roof. I'd love to have an umbrella that could fly me up and down.

The dogs are starting to look very colorful these days. The stick tights have really come on strong this year. Poor Zeus, my big brown boy, comes back from a run just covered in bright green. I've found that a cat brush with the short little wires works very well at removing them. A horse curry comb works well, too. Don't forget to keep using your flea repellent on your critters. It's the grand finale for fleas and they want to come inside for the winter! Besides, it's much warmer to bathe the dogs outside now, than in October. If you use a flea shampoo, don't forget to leave the shampoo on for 5 minutes in order to kill the fleas.

Now, get a chair and get comfy outside at sunset. Think of all the blessings that came your way during the summer. Watch the sun go down and the night sky come up. Listen to the world go to bed. Then, when Saturday morning rolls around get yourself in gear and get those chores done. The cold is coming and it's looking like a convoy. Happy Growing!

Tired? Learn more about sleep Oct. 17

Do you remember when you had a good night's sleep?

Dr. Demetra Antimisias, PharmD, CGP, FASCP, from the University of Louisville Dept. of Neurology, will talk about sleep health on Oct. 17 in Anderson County.

Joan Martin

Here are some tips on getting a good night's sleep. She will provide extensive information on sleep health which will help you or other family members from young children to seniors.

Insomnia is a common problem but that doesn't mean you should just accept it and be chronically sleep deprived. You can make choices that will help you sleep and counting sheep is not one of them.

People with insomnia have trouble falling asleep or staying asleep.

Chronic insomnia can affect your work, school, social life and health.

Some conditions that cause insomnia or make it worse are depression, anxiety, allergies and pain.

Sometimes there is no clearly defined cause. Many people can get some relief by improving their sleep habits.

It seems like a no brainer, but many people will just lie in bed trying to sleep instead of getting up.

If you don't fall asleep within

Decide not to self-medicate to help yourself sleep. Over-the-counter sleep medication can make insomnia worse in kids. For some adults, chronic antihistamine use can lead to tolerance after just one to two weeks of continuous use.

15 to 20 minutes, get up and go to another room. Return to bed only when you feel drowsy.

Stick to a regular sleep schedule even on the weekends.

Get regular exercise but avoid heavy exercise late at night. Do something relaxing and enjoyable before bed but not something with computers and cell phones, etc.

Another no brainer is to remove your clock from sight, even if you just put a towel over it. Avoid bright lights from the TV, computers, video games, cell phones, etc.

A simple way to help you get a good night's sleep is to make sure you get outside during daylight hours.

Walk on your lunch break or as soon as you get home from work. Spend some time outdoors at the same time each day during daylight hours.

Your body may need to reset its internal clock. Your body needs daylight to help you sleep at night.

Ask your pharmacist or physician to check your medicines, in case any of them keep you from sleeping.

The pharmacist or physician may recommend changing the time you take the dose.

At the end of the year, Rita cleaned off her bus as she always did, and the ring found its way into Rita's jewelry box.

Rita, who retired in December, had been going through her jewelry recently and saw the mother's ring. "I need to find somebody who owns this," Rita said. "It has to be somebody's, and I'm sure they want it back."

After speaking with a friend at the bus garage about contacting The Anderson News, she said she wanted to attempt to locate the

City council finalizes tax rate hike

By Meaghan Downs
News staff

The city council unanimously approved the second reading of its 3.26 percent tax increase on Sept. 9. Council members voted 5-0 to set the real property tax rate at $1.90 per $1,000 assessed value and the personal property tax rate at $3.07 per $1,000 assessed value. Councilman Larry Giles was absent during last Monday night's meeting. The new compensating rates will add $6 per $100,000 assessed real property and $22.20 per $100,000 assessed personal property for the upcoming fiscal year. The tax rates will bring in about $1.1 million in revenue for the city. Real property assessments for the city went down by about $1.3 million since last year, according to councilman and finance committee chairman Sandy Goodlett, who cited numbers provided by the Property Valuation Administration during the council's first reading at the end of August, while personal property assessments in Lawrenceburg went up slightly by about $475,000. The city also set a flat rate on motor vehicles at $2.29 per $1,000 assessed value, which will produce a revenue of about $131,481. The increase in revenue from 2012, about $4,799, will be used for increased general fund expenses including salaries and benefits, supplies and equipment and the repair and maintenance of city public properties. The council also approved a second reading of its electric utility franchise, agreeing to continue to offer a non-exclusive electric franchise for a 10-year period and to receive 3 percent of gross receipts annually.

Emergency management to update school staff radios
Bart Powell, director of public safety, announced in his presentation to the council that emergency management will be working with Anderson County school district staff to update their internal radio system to include an Anderson County emergency management channel. Powell said adding a channel for emergency management communications with school staff will increase the capability of emergency management to respond to a scene. Powell estimated that about 40 radios in the schools' internal system will be affected. Powell also said emergency management worked with the city police and the sheriff's office to help conduct site safety surveys for the school district. Powell said he'd been elected to the board of directors of the Franklin County chapter of the Red Cross, which also serves Anderson County, and encouraged the council to support both the Red Cross and the Kentucky Blood Center.

Police department hires two new officers
Two new city police officers, Jason Peyton and Joseph Massey, have joined the city police department, according to Police Chief Chris Atkins in his presentation to the council. The police department now has 14 police officers on staff, including himself, Atkins said. Atkins also mentioned that the police department purchased two new patrol cars, two 2012 Dodge Chargers that are street-ready. Two older vehicles will be stripped and added to the city's surplus to be approved in the October meeting, City Clerk Robbie Hume said.

Two men busted for LSD, cocaine possession

Gardner and Cross plead not guilty

From staff reports

Two men pleaded not guilty last Thursday to cocaine possession and LSD trafficking charges during a District Court arraignment.

Cross

Gardner

Benjamin Gardner, 21, 2976 Hume Bedford Road, Lawrenceburg, and Kevin Cross, 36, 1105 Jesamine Station Pike, Nicholasville, were arrested Sept. 9 around 5 p.m. after city police found cocaine, LSD and marijuana in Cross's vehicle during a traffic stop on North Main Street.

City police noticed Cross, driving a Crown Victoria on North Main with Gardner as a passenger, swerving from the fog line to center line three times, according to court documents.

Cross was later charged by police with a DUI. Gardner's eyes were pinpointed and he seemed nervous and unsteady on his feet, according to the citation narrative.

City police searched the vehicle and found 2 grams of cocaine in a small, blue baggie as well as 258 dots of LSD and 3 grams of marijuana.

Police also found three light bulbs containing burnt brown chemical substance and other drug paraphernalia, including tweezers, rolling papers and numerous cut straws.

Cross faces one count careless driving; one count first-degree possession of a controlled substance-cocaine, his first offense; one count possession of marijuana; and one count first-degree trafficking in controlled substance-LSD, his first offense.

Cross was also charged with operating a suspended or revoked operator's license, failure to maintain insurance, failure to produce insurance card, failure to surrender operator's license and no/expired Kentucky registration receipt.

According to court documents on file in District Court, Cross was declared indigent and will be appointed a public defender.

Gardner was charged with one count public intoxication for controlled substance excluding alcohol; one count first-degree possession of a controlled substance-cocaine, his first offense; first-degree trafficking in controlled substance-LSD, his first offense; one count possession of marijuana; and three counts of buying or possessing drug paraphernalia.

Preliminary hearings for Cross and Gardner are scheduled to be held Thursday, Sept. 19.

Bond for Gardner has been sent at $10,000 cash and Cross's bond was set at $10,000 cash, according to District Court documents.

A bond out court date for Gardner and Cross has been scheduled for Oct. 24.

HANDS PROGRAM RECEIVES TOTE DONATIONS

The Anderson County health department recently received a donation of baby bottles, clothing and other supplies for its HANDS program during a HANDS tote party celebration at the department. Salvisa resident Pat Roberts, the founder of the non-profit Little Man's Legacy Totes, said she started her non-profit about seven years ago in honor of her late grandson who died of AIDS. Roberts said each of six totes she donated to the Anderson County health department was compiled with each specific HANDS family in mind. Roberts said she makes two big donations a year — one to the Anderson County health department and one to the Woodford County health department. # Anderson County prayer walk to be held Saturday

From staff reports

Lawrenceburg non-profit Awakening Ministries of Kentucky, local churches and other faith-based organizations will be sponsoring the Anderson County Prayer Walk on Sept. 21 starting at 10 a.m. until approximately noon.

Participants can join the walk at three separate starting locations: the Anderson County ninth grade building, the Anderson County courthouse or the Lawrenceburg Green at 10 a.m.

The prayer walk route will begin at the ninth grade building down Broadway, turning at Main Street to make a stop at the courthouse before ending at the Lawrenceburg Green.

The event will conclude at the Lawrenceburg Green with corporate worship and prayer led by Jeremy Hargis and The Place worship team of Elizabethtown.

Event organizers ask that those participating in the walk to bring their chairs to the Green before going to starting points at the courthouse and the high school.

Vans will be available to shuttle people back to their vehicles after the walk.

Event organizers said last year they had 350 participate and are expecting at least 500 to attend Saturday's event.

"The main purpose [of the walk] is to pray for the people of Anderson County, our governments, our schools, families and in general, to bring unity to the body of Christ," event organizer Brittany Price said.

For more information, contact Brittany Price at 239-691-9934 or find "Awakening Ministries of Kentucky" on Facebook.

Legion Auxiliary sponsors students for Girls State

From staff reports

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 34 recently sponsored two local students for Girls State, according to a press release.

Kacy Ripy, a junior Auxiliary member, and her friend Laura Walker attended the University of the Cumberland in Williamsburg for one week.

"They spoke at our August meeting stating they enjoyed the week very much and learned a lot about how our government works," Auxiliary members said in the release.

"They said they had fun and would like to be counselors next year and would encourage other girls to attend. They shared pictures with Auxiliary members."

The American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary National Convention was held in Houston, Texas, on Aug. 23-29. Those attending from Lawrenceburg were Unit 34 president and department chaplain Betty Butler and Shirley and Bobby Thornberry. This was the 95th national convention for the Legion and the 93rd for the Auxiliary.

Pre-convention meetings were held on Saturday the 24th. The joint patriotic memorial service was held on Sunday morning and the national parade on Sunday afternoon.

Monday the 26th was the opening convention session with meetings each day. Tuesday was a salute to active duty service women awards. An award was given to an active military woman from each branch of service. The army award was given to a Kentucky soldier.

The Woman of the Year

luncheon was held on Tuesday. That afternoon Vice President Joe Biden spoke to the Legion family. Tuesday evening was the National Commander's banquet. A delicious meal was served and entertainment was by The Temptations Review, organizers said.

Wednesday many more reports were given and it was the closing of the convention. The Auxiliary States' Dinner was held on Wednesday evening with a great meal and entertainment by Phil Dirt and the Dozers, organizers said.

The American Legion Auxiliary 2013 National Convention Guide and Annual Report reported that the Auxiliary had 4,525,118 actual volunteer hours.

The dollars raised or spent on veterans and military families were $19,426,156. The number of military families served was 3,245,448. These numbers would have nearly doubled if all units had reported, according to the Auxiliary's release; these numbers were only 54 percent of units reporting.

Lee's Famous earns top honors for growth

From staff reports

The Lawrenceburg location of Lee's Famous Recipe Chicken has been honored for finishing first in U.S. and international sales for 2011 and 2012 and is expected to achieve more than $1 million in sales, according to Lee's Famous Recipe Chicken restaurant owner and operator Chris Freeman.

"It's actually been a joint effort between good hard working people from Anderson County that have helped me along the way; and obviously, we couldn't do it without our loyal customers," Freeman, who purchased the restaurant in March 2011, said. "I have to give them proper credit."

The Lawrenceburg location of Lee's Famous Recipe Chicken increased sales by 29.3 percent in 2011 and by 18.22 percent in 2012.

Freeman said he expects sales to be up by at least 15 percent for 2013 and to place in the top three, but that it may be difficult to achieve the No. 1 spot again.

"It's definitely a possibility, but it would be really hard to do three years in a row," Freeman said. "I definitely think we have a good opportunity to do it again."

To celebrate the Lawrenceburg restaurant's achievement, corporate staff came to Lee's to hold a small celebration, bringing a cake and the restaurant's award.

Commonwealth's Attorney Donnell named top prosecutor in state

Landmark News Service

Laura Donnell, the commonwealth's attorney who represents Anderson, Shelby and a portion of Spencer counties, achieved a high honor last month when she received the 2013 Outstanding Commonwealth Attorney award.

Two commonwealth's attorneys are selected each year for that honor, one Republican and one Democrat. Donnell is a Republican, and Brent Turner, representing the 31st Judicial Circuit, as the Democrat. Donnell's circuit is the 53rd.

Donnell said she was surprised to receive the award Aug. 22 from Attorney General Jack Conway's office during the Kentucky Prosecutors Conference in Lexington.

"It's quite an honor, and I was very pleased," she said.

She said the reason being selected for the award means a lot to her because Kentucky has 57 commonwealth attorneys - most have three or four counties that they serve - and they are all very talented and dedicated.

"It was a surprise because there are so many accomplished attorneys and prosecutors, so many people working for our communities, so that makes me even more proud,"

she said.

Daniel Kemp, deputy communications director for the Attorney General's office, said that Donnell was selected because she has gone above and beyond in fulfilling the duties of her office.

"The Office of the Attorney General looks very closely at the number of special prosecution cases a prosecutor accepts during the year, as well as how the prosecutor handles those cases," he said. "When a county or commonwealth's attorney recuses himself or herself from a case, a special prosecutor will be appointed. Laura Donnell accepted five felony appointments as special prosecutor this year alone. Oftentimes, these cases are time consuming for a prosecutor."

"The Office of the Attorney General also bases its decision on a recipient's record of achievement in the area where he or she serves."

Donnell's office handles all felony cases at the circuit court level as well as presents cases to the grand jury.

She said that Shelby is the busiest of her counties, where she handles an average of 250 felony cases per year, compared to 120 in Anderson and 70 in Spencer.

"I always consider the number one responsibility of the commonwealth's office to be public safety," she said. "That is my main goal, to provide public safety for my three counties, Shelby Anderson and Spencer. Our goal is to enforce the laws and see that victims of crimes are taken care of and that criminals are held to the consequences of their offenses."

Donnell, a graduate of the University of Louisville who earned her law degree from the University of Kentucky, is a Jessamine County native, who moved to Shelby County 15 years ago to serve as assistant commonwealth attorney. She was elected commonwealth attorney in 2006 and began her first term in January 2007. She won reelection in 2012.

"Spellabration is a community spelling bee to determine the best spelling team in the county," event organizers said. "Teams will consist of three spellers, of any age, who will compete as a team for the Spellabration trophy. Put together a team of spellers and claim the title. Then proudly display the trophy in your home or business for one year. Prizes will be awarded for the best team costume and most crowd support so bring your friends and family to root you on to victory.

"Come out and enjoy Burgoon Days and come compete for that trophy."

Proceeds of the fundraiser will go to the learning center, event organizers said.

For more information on sponsoring the event or for entry forms, call the Adult Learning Center at 839-3754.

Testing their limits

Seniors in AP calculus class prepare for exam

Test your math smarts with these calculus problems

Students in Erin Rhody's AP calculus class worked to solve the following limit equations during Rhody's fifth hour last Wednesday afternoon.

See if you can dust off your math skills to solve for 'x' in each equation. The seniors were asked to solve each equation graphically, numerically and analytically.

These problems will be similar to the ones high school students will likely see on their AP calculus tests in the spring.

a.  $\lim_{x \rightarrow 0} \frac{1}{x+4} - \frac{1}{4}$

b.  $\lim_{x \rightarrow 4} \frac{x^2 - 5x + 4}{x^2 - 2x - 8}$

c.  $\lim_{x \rightarrow 3} \frac{x^2 + 7x + 12}{x + 3}$

Answers: a. 1/6, b. 1/2, c. 1

Pictured, from left, are high school seniors Trista Dillon, Lauren Smith and Jacob Brumley as they calculate the answer to a limits equation on a graphing calculator during Advanced Placement calculus. Students worked in different groups to solve equations together. Some worked at the whiteboard; others wrote out their work at their desks, then wiped off the limits equations.

This is the second year teacher Erin Rhody, who has been at ACHS for 14 years, has been teaching calculus to Anderson County High School students. She teaches two class periods for a total of 40 students, many of whom are taking multiple AP courses this year. 'If nothing else, they learn how to think. They learn how to problem solve. They should pass the exam,' Rhody said. Pictured, from left counterclockwise, are Morgan Wade, Kaitlynn Gootee, teacher Erin Rhody, Hank Reynolds (hidden), Tyler DeWitt and David Simmons.

Andrew Calvert, left, and Hannah Meredith, right, graph a limits equation during AP calculus last Wednesday afternoon. Meredith said she prefers the algebraic method to graphs.

David Simmons calculates a limits equation during AP calculus last week.

Pictured, from left, are Lauren Smith, Seth Johnston and Miles Manuel as they scribble down a new limits equation. Manuel, an ACHS senior, explained limits this way: that as the x-value approaches a certain value, it explains what the corresponding y-value is approaching. Manuel said he is taking four AP courses.

Student receives High School Leader award during Youth Salute

From staff reports

Emma Harris of Anderson County received the "High School Leader" award in the 2013 Youth Salute held May 5 at Asbury University, according to a news release.

The 33rd awards ceremony honored 692 high school juniors from 45 high schools in Central Kentucky. A top Youth Leader was named for each high school, as well as "Youth Leaders of the Year."

A lunch and leadership seminar was held for all the students the same day as the awards ceremony.

Students were nominated by teachers, guidance counselors and principals for this year's "Youth Salute." In order to qualify, the student had to be a junior (senior class of 2013), have a 3.0 G.P.A. or better and have held at least two leadership roles to which they were chosen by their peers or an adult leader within the past two years in school, religious or community sponsored organizations.

Students nominated from Anderson County for this year's Youth Salute were David Simmons, Emma Harris, Hannah Meredith, Hunter Campbell, Jacob Brumley, Jesse Keith Currens, Kathryn Brooke Marquardt, Lauren Fowler, Leah D. Mager, Madeline Davis, Mary Lee, Max Crabtree, Megan Schell, Molly Kate Burkhead and Tiffany Yount.

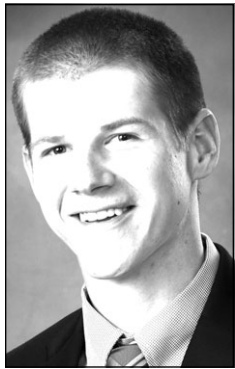

The Central Kentucky Council on Youth Leadership was formed in 1980 to conduct the "Youth Salute" in nearby counties in cooperation with the National Council on Youth Leadership, a non-profit organization.

A photo studio in Lexington photographed each student nominated and created a display, including a biographical sketch, which is hosted in the community and the students' high school.

Individual displays of Central Kentucky high schools are shown at Fayette Mall in Lexington.

"It started with W.D. "Cordy" Mountjoy, who collected 4,000 horses for use in World War I by the U.S. military.

"William David 'Cordy' was inducted into the Kentucky State Fair World's Championship Hall of Fame at its induction in 1962.

"In 1950 Cordy Mountjoy was joined in the operation of the farm by his son, William D. 'Fuzzy' Mountjoy and his wife Rhett. Here they raised four children, Rita, Michael, David and Candy.

"When Cordy died, Billy and his son David operated the farm until Billy's death in

1983. Since then David has operated Mountjoy Farm and Stable. Billy raised WC Bluegrass Lady, A Perfect Mate to A Perfect Jewel (BHF) dam of WC Set The Style and WC Stonewall's Sound of Music. # BIRDWHISTELL TALKS FAST AT KY. STATE FAIR

THE WAY WE WERE

50 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Sept. 12, 2013

Officer John Denton reported an accident at the corner of Court and Waterfill Monday about 3:30 p.m.

A truck driven by Richard Mathew Derringer of Springfield and owned by the Lawrenceburg Ready-Mix Co. was parked while Derringer went into the Model Market. When he came out the truck had rolled into a fireplug, knocking it over. No damage was reported to the plug, but about $20 damage to the truck.

The Last Chance restaurant on Lincoln Street, operated by Lewis Barnett, was entered sometime Thursday night or early Wednesday morning. A small amount of hamburger, a package of wieners and $30.30 was taken.

Police Chief William Kirby said the thieves cut a screen to enter the restaurant and pried open a cigarette machine to get the money.

Jack Birdwhistell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Birdwhistell, qualified as a semi-finalist in the National Merit Scholarship Corporation tests.

Lou Drury
Aunt Lou is 95

"Sitting alone in an old rocking chair" is not the description of Mrs. Lou Drury, who quietly observed her 95th birthday today (Sept. 12, 1963). Though the cheerful old lady admits, "These hands of mine ache sometime, and my feet get powerful lazy," she insists that living alone in her home near Ashbrook is the kind of life that suits her best," Wyatt Shely wrote in his "Our Heritage" column.

Like many other Anderson County's former one-room schools, the Royalty schoolhouse had been transformed into a dwelling. It is here that Mrs. Drury resided.

She set a good table, kept her three small rooms immaculate and tended to her flowers.

"I've got me a bouquet of sunflowers," she proudly exclaimed. "Don't you think they're pretty?"

"Pa always told me not to get married 'til I was 21," she reminisced, "and I held out. Al and me got married the very day I was 21. We had talked to each other seven years before we got married."

Lucy Jane Gritton, daughter of Levi "Pete" and Sarah Jane Gritton was born in Anderson County. She attended Bethel Church in Mercer County and attended school nearby. She was married to Alexander Drury.

They went to housekeeping near Sulphur Creek, but moved a number of times before his death in 1947.

To them were born 14 children. "I didn't much trouble raising them," the aging mother mused. "They all had big appetites and it took a heap of cooking and a lot of patching to get them raised, but they were all pretty good children. They didn't get automobiles until they were grown. We hardly ever went to town."

And then Aunt Lou's mind returned to birthdays. "One of the very best birthdays I ever had was when I lived up on Puncheon. I fixed up a big dinner and nobody came. There was nobody there but me."

Several of her children lived nearby and kept close watch on her, stopping in every few days.

Her children were: Mrs. Onie Cornish, Russ Drury, Claude Drury Mrs. Evel Gritton, Mrs. Delta McCammack, Mrs. Clifton Drury, Sharsle Drury, Charlie Drury, Mrs. Addie Hoskins, Mrs. Lizzie Satterly, Mrs. Pearl Robison and Mrs. Elsie Darnell, as well as two that died in infancy.

The Cambellite Quartet, composed of Richard E. Crutcher, Robert Duncan, Charles McCoy and W.J. Smith, sang at the state fair in the Rural Gospel Quartet Contest. A group from Lincoln County won it.

Mrs. Freeman Gilbert, fourth grade teacher at Lawrenceburg Elementary School, suffered a hip fracture when she fell at the school about the time classes were dismissed. She underwent surgery at the St. Joseph Hospital in Lexington.

Jack G. Nowlin was promoted to rank of Master Sergeant. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. P.A. Nowlin of Tyrone.

Frank P. Brown, aviation ordnanceman first class, USN, son of Mrs. Mary E. Brown of Route 3, graduated from Aviation Ordnanceman School at the Naval Air Technical Training Unit in Jacksonville, Fla.

son, Lee.

Buford also celebrated her 52nd anniversary on the following day (Monday), with husband, Virgil, and sons, Michael and Ted.

Randy Birdwhistell made history at the Kentucky State Fair. He not only was the youngest person to ever receive the title of State Champion Auctioneer, but Birdwhistell family claims to have the only father-son team to win the coveted title.

Randy's dad, Glenn, who was a senior member of Birdwhistell and Perry auction, won the title several years ago.

Not only that, but Steve Cornish, who also auctioneered for Birdwhistell and Perry, was named second runner-up in the competition. It was his first year in the contest.

Why does God allow catastrophes to happen?

The visual images are gut-wrenching. The personal stories are heart-rending. National Weather Service Director Louis Uccellini called it a "historic event." Ironically enough, the NWS used the term "biblical" in an adjectival sense. Luke

Brian Owens
Faith columnist

Runyon, a reporter with Harvest Public Media, said in a post on Twitter that the word seemed appropriate, especially in light of the recent Colorado weather pattern which has been made up of wildfires, drought and now a deluge. The massive flooding in Colorado, which has claimed several lives and displaced hundreds of others, has caught our attention, prompting our prayers and serving to remind us how calamitous nature can be. In my own limited personal experience, I remember a snow storm that shut down I-64, an ice storm that brought a large chunk of the Commonwealth standstill and a tornado that ripped a swath through Eastern Kentucky. Not to mention record heat and cold, and the predictable patterns of every season. Weather can be brutal.

When we witness the tragedy and devastation that floods, drought, wildfire and other weather extremities can bring about, many people ask "Why does a good God allow such catastrophes to take place?" Some Christians seek to avoid this question by removing all control of the weather from God and say that these things simply "just happen." The problem is that it doesn't answer the question; If they simply "just happen," why can't God just intervene and stop them?

There are two realities that scripture teaches with regard to this mystery: one is that we live in a world where these things are likely to happen. In other words, we live in a fallen, sin-ridden world and the extreme weather events we see are a part of this fallen world order. Romans 8:20 tells us that all of creation was "subjected to futility" because of sin. Along with those who have been redeemed from sin by the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ, creation itself "groans" (Rom. 8:22) to be released from its bondage to the effects of man's sin, awaiting the culmination of all things in Christ (Rom. 8:23-25).

Secondly, not only do we live in a world where these things are likely to happen, we live in a world where they are purposed to happen. The scriptures teach that God is in control of everything, including the weather. You may not like it or even agree with it, but that doesn't change the truth of God's word. Scripture plainly teaches that God is sovereign over all things. Charles Spurgeon rightly said, "No doctrine in the whole word of God has excited the hatred of mankind more than the truth of the absolute sovereignty of God." Those Christians who, in an effort to protect God's image, attribute natural disasters to randomness that is outside of the control of God are holding to an agnostic point of view which is not compatible with biblical Christianity.

In Job 37, a man named Elihu proclaims the majesty and greatness of God to those who possess skewed interpretations. From thunder and lightning (vv.3-4) to the snow (v.6) and ice (v.10), the weather is God's power on parade. The reason: "whether for correction or for his land, or for love, he causes it to happen" (v.13). Even the Lord Jesus proclaimed in Matthew 4:45 that "[God] causes His sun to rise on the evil and the good, and sends rain on the righteous and the unrighteous." Whether this rain waters our gardens or floods our cities, we must be willing to acknowledge that what comes about in nature is part of God's good and wise providence.

When we hear of some weather-related calamity taking place around the world, we are right to grieve with those who grieve and pray for those who suffer. We give financially and go physically in the name of Jesus to try and alleviate their affliction. Likewise, we should affirm that while these incidents are the effects of the curse that sin brought on creation, they are also part of God's sovereign plan in redeeming the world to himself, for his glory and our good.

THAT'S WHAT CHURCHES ARE FOR

Several years ago when I preached in Houston, Texas, a man called wanting to know just how much money we were going to give him.

He said that he had called another church and they were going to give him $200 and just wanted to know how much we would be in for. When I told him that we were not going to give him anything he said, "Well, that's what churches are for."

Here was a man who worshipped nowhere, wanting the church to give him, an unbeliever, money for his so-called physical needs.

The Lord's church was not established to: go into all the world and provide food, clothing and shelter. It was never meant to be a benevolent society taking care of the physical needs of people.

The church that Jesus died for is an assembly of people who have been taught (John 6:44-45) and then obeyed the Gospel message (Mark 16:15-16; 1 Cor. 15:1-4). Jesus came seeking to save the lost from their sins (Luke 19:10), not to feed them physically.

In fact, Jesus fed the five thousand and then they wanted to follow him for the food rather than salvation (John 6). The church is duty bound to proclaim the message of salvation to all men (Matt. 28:18-20). Again, the church cannot be a social organization looking out for social needs.

FALLEN ON 9/11

County Fire Chief Mike Barnes and his wife, Barbara, said they have created a 9/11 memorial display on their front porch every year since September 2002 to honor firefighters who lost their lives on 9/11. Barbara said the memorial is usually just up for the day, as a reminder for everyone who passes by or stops at their home.

Sam Laytart (14) consoles Anderson County kicker Joe Rose after Rose's potential game-tying kick was wide left with 2.5 seconds to play Friday at Boyle County.

Gotta love a kicker

I never dreamed of throwing a touchdown pass or making a game-saving tackle in the Super Bowl.

I just wanted to kick the game-winning field goal.

Maybe it was because the first time my favorite team, the Dallas Cowboys, made it to the Super Bowl, they came up short. A rookie kicker, Jim O'Brien of the Baltimore Colts - THAT designation is showing my age - split the uprights from 32 yards with only five seconds to play.

It was that day that I learned just how valuable a guy who might never get dirty really is in football. And, over the next few years, I realized just what kind of pressure-packed spot it really is.

As a kid, my backyard turned into 15 different stadiums as I perfected the old two-steps-and-kick straight ahead method by driving a football over the basketball goal. I never missed.

If I did, there was undoubtedly a penalty.

Friday night, the cruel fate of the job reared its head.

Anderson County's Joe Rose had become so automatic during his two years as the Bearcats' number one kicker that I rarely even look up during extra point attempts. The electronic age means that often I am on the sideline taking notes, shooting pictures and getting ready to update my Twitter feed.

And, of course, Joe Rose has been so automatic that I take that shortcut.

As the Bearcats were driving for what looked to be a game-winning touchdown or game-tying field goal Friday night, two thoughts kept popping through my mind.

One was that Rose had missed only one kick - field goal or extra point - in his career at Anderson. That's outstanding at any level, unbelievable in the high schools.

The other was a quote from former University of Kentucky coach Jerry Claiborne: "A kicker can win a game for you, but he can never lose one for you."

I could not help but feel for Joe Rose last Friday night. Earlier in the game, he had made a heads up play from punt formation when he kicked a bad snap through the end zone to give up a safety but preventing a momentum-changing touchdown by Boyle County.

Yet in the moments following Friday's game, I saw several tweets from the statewide media referring to the fact that Anderson County lost when it missed a last second field goal.

Such a characterization is at best inaccurate. It is certainly unfair.

Anderson coach Mark Peach seemed to be echoing those words from Claiborne Friday when he said, "This game did not come down to just one kick. We could probably make a list of 20 mistakes."

In other words, if a team is in a position that one kick is the difference between winning and losing, there have been many other things happen over the course of the game that put a team there.

As I was walking to my car, I ran into Anderson defensive coordinator Duane Hammons. We were trying to remember the only previous kick Rose had missed. We only recalled that it was a freak thing. "He has been automatic for us," Hammons said. "I would send him right back out there if we had it to do again."

So would I.

Jitters, mistakes doom Bearcats

Boyle holds off Anderson comeback as late field goal sails wide

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

DANVILLE - Had the Bearcats known at 7:30 p.m. what they did three hours later last Friday night, Anderson County might still be unbeaten.

Mistakes, many attributable to the possibility that the Bearcats were on the biggest regular-season stage of their careers, cost Anderson dearly in an outing worthy of its billing in the excitement factor.

A thrill a minute? No question.

But it was 48 minutes of a pair of powerhouses trying to work out some kinks.

For Anderson, there were 15 penalties, most of which cost only five yards but came at inopportune times. There were dropped passes. A pair of bad snaps in the kicking game cost the Bearcats three points. Anderson showed tentativeness early.

And still somehow, it wasn't until Joe Rose's potential game-tying field goal attempt from 23 yards sailed wide left with 2.5 seconds to play that Boyle's 30-27 win was secure before an overflow crowd at Rebel Stadium.

Boyle, ranked No. 2 by the Associated Press in Class 4A, improved to 4-0 on the season while Anderson, ranked No. 2 in Class 5A by the AP, fell to 2-1.

"This game didn't come down to one kick," Anderson coach Mark Peach said. "We could probably make a list of 20 mistakes. We had 15 penalties. We were jumping offside. We could give you a long list."

Anderson County's Ross Cox (25) tries to get away from Boyle County's Aiden Stewart-Hoskins in the first quarter of Friday's game at Boyle.

Boyle, however, felt it also had its chances to make another statewide statement. "They made a heck of a drive down the field there, and we were fortunate that the field goal was wide left. They made a gallant effort there to put the ball in the end zone," Boyle coach Larry French said to the Danville Advocate-Messenger. "We were fortunate to get the win. We had chances to put the game away, and we just didn't do it, and I don't know if you call that finishing or not."

Somewhere over the course of 48 minutes, though, Anderson found it could be opening the door to a place among the state's elite a bit wider. Boyle, which has won seven state titles since 1999 and is believed to have a very good chance at adding an eighth this year, made the plays it needed to hold on to the win.

Anderson, however, struggled for 24 minutes, picking up just four first downs in the first half, but once the Bearcats forgot who, and where, they were playing, all was

Bearcats to host old rival Mercer Friday night

Long-time fans to be remembered before kickoff

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

Remember those days when Anderson County and Mercer County was a good old-fashioned knock-down, drag-out fight on the football field?

Through the 1980s and early 1990s it was arguably the biggest game on both teams' schedule in terms of post-season play since they were in the same Class AA district. Win, and chances were that team would have a good seeding in the state playoffs.

Being district rivals was good. That they shared a long county line and had some bitter meetings in other sports made it lovely.

That kind of luster is no longer there, but Friday's matchup looks to be the closest meeting in the series since it resumed in 2009. Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m. at Hollie Warford Stadium.

The once-heated series has been decidedly Anderson since the resumption with Anderson winning all four games by at least three touchdowns. Last year, Anderson rolled, 48-7.

The teams did not play from 1996-2000, but lined up from 2001-2005, with Mercer winning all five of those matchups. Current Anderson defensive coordinator Duane Hammons was the Mercer head coach for the first four of those meetings.

Anderson, coming off a loss at Boyle County, will look to regroup against a Mercer team that cracked the Associated Press Class 4A Top 10 last week, coming in at tenth.

Like Anderson, however, Mercer suffered its first loss, to 6A power Central Hardin, 48-21. Anderson coach Mark Peach says Mercer is better than that score and is a different team than the one Anderson routed last year at Mercer.

"They are outstanding," Peach said. "Drew Davis is

Lady Bearcats strike Collins early for district victory

Johnson scores twice as girls clinch good seed

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

SHELBYVILLE - There would be no nail-biting and very little worrying for Anderson County girls' soccer Monday night.

Allie Johnson scored twice in the first 15 minutes to propel the Lady Bearcats to a 4-0 win over 30th District rival Collins Monday night.

The Lady Bearcats improved to 3-6-2 on the year, but most importantly, they moved to 2-1-0 in 30th District play. Anderson assured itself of no worse than the third seed in next month's district tournament and will most likely be the second-seeded team when the tournament kicks off.

Collins fell to 5-3 and 0-1. The teams could meet again in the first round of the district tournament.

Johnson gave the Lady Bearcats all the offense they would need less than seven minutes in when she took a pass, then got behind the Collins defense to drill a rocket into the net. "The keeper didn't have a chance," Anderson coach Jason Earnest said.

Before the 15th minute, Johnson struck again, taking the ball from a defender then beating the defense and sending another jet to the net. "The keeper didn't have a chance on that one either," Earnest said.

For all practical purposes, Anderson had earned its third win less than 15 minutes in.

"We have struggled a lot this year," Earnest said. "Often the first half has been our bad half, but tonight, we had our best half of soccer since the pre-season."

By halftime, Anderson had built its margin to the 4-0 final as Madeline Wilson connected across the middle, then Claire Prater got fouled in the box and hit a penalty kick.

Anderson, which won last year's district tournament, turned the second half into a clinic on ball control and killing clock. "We talked about that at halftime," Earnest said. "We knew it could get physical, so we told them to keep trying to move it around. We had a lot of passing and they had to be chasing us around."

"We were killing some clock, but we told the girls that if (a scoring opportunity) was there, to go forward."

Anderson is now the only district team that has completed regular-season district play. Unless the Lady Bearcats end up in a three-way tie for the dis-

Anderson volleyball earns big district win over Shelby

From staff reports

Anderson County volleyball got right back in the race for the top seed in the 30th District tournament with a big three-set win over visiting Shelby County last Tuesday. The Lady Bearcats prevailed 25-19, 28-26 and 25-15 to improve to 2-1 in district play.

Shelby fell to 1-2 as district teams finished the first half of their district matches.

Over the weekend, the Lady Bearcats participated in the Thorobred Smash, hosted by Lafayette High School at the Kentucky Basketball Academy. Anderson won two out of five matches to finish fourth in the silver bracket of the tourney.

Anderson had set its goals high, hoping to finish in the gold bracket of the tournament.

"We're here to provide the best, quality coaching for our players to help them achieve their maximum competitive level of play," Anderson coach Courtney DeLong said in a news release.

Anderson County's Regan Darst makes a return against Shelby County.

Lafayette as the Generals posted a 25-10, 25-14 win in the first set. "The first two matches in any pool play (tournament) are critical and set the tone for the rest of the tournament," Anderson assistant coach Bob Hardin said in the release.

"We had the skill to compete on the same level as Lafayette but failed to push through their defense and gain the momentum needed to sustain a victory."

Anderson regrouped with a 3-set win over Lincoln County. Anderson led most of the first game, winning 25-18, but Lincoln came back with a 25-20 win in the second. Anderson carved out a 15-10 win in the third set, earning a spot in the silver bracket, or the bracket for teams that placed second in each pool.

On Saturday, Anderson defeated Pulaski County, 25-20, 26-24. "We had some great moments against Pulaski County with consistent serves and good defense," DeLong said in the release.

Anderson was unable so sustain the momentum, dropping matches to Franklin County (25-18, 25-20) and Betsy Layne (25-16, 25-21) to finish fourth in the bracket.

The first match of the day against Pulaski Co. was in the Bearcats favor (25-20, 26-24).

"We had some great moments against Pulaski Co. with consistent serves and good defense," said DeLong.

"It was nice to see the girls come out strong in an effort to finish leading in the silver bracket," said Hardin.

As the day progressed, the cards weren't in the Bearcats favor, falling to Franklin Co. (25-18, 25-20) and Betsy Layne (25-16, 25-21). Bearcats would finish fourth in the silver bracket to finish out the Lafayette tournament.

Anderson is 9-8 on the year and will be at George Rogers Clark for a three-way double-header on Saturday with the host school and Lexington Catholic. Monday, the Lady Bearcats travel to Franklin County but return home on Tuesday against Burgin.

Bearcats rout Bourbon for first win of season

Rose scores three goals in victory, Prithcert, Simmons add to total

From staff reports

Anderson County got its first win of the boys' soccer season last Thursday, when the Bearcats routed visiting Bourbon County, 5-0.

Joe Rose led the Bearcats, scoring three times in the first 25 minutes of action. Garrett Prithcert added a goal while David Simmons also scored off a nice pass from Lucas Best. Dalton Wells also had two assists for the Bearcats.

Bourbon fell to 1-10 on the year.

Anderson was in total control when the match was halted by lightning with 32 minutes to play.

Two nights earlier, the Bearcats dropped a 5-1 decision to Somerset. The Briar Jumpers scored twice early, then pulled away for the convincing win to move to 5-1-2 on the year.

Anderson went into Tuesday's game with Bryan Station at 1-5-1. Anderson will travel to Bourbon County to play in the Colonel Classic over the weekend.

district championship, Anderson will be the No. 2 seed. A three-way tie would happen if Collins wins its games against Shelby County and Spencer County. It appears that Spencer still has the inside track on the top seed no matter what happens.

Anderson fourth in Boyle tournament

The Lady Bearcats won one of three matches to take third place in the Little Caesar's Classic, held last week at Boyle County High School.

Anderson defeated Bethlehem, 2-1, last Monday, then was shut out by the host school and Paul. L. Dunbar.

"Against Bethlehem, we played pretty good for a half, but then we played awful. Boyle County has a very good team and we played really good. They were up on us 1-0 in the first half, then they scored again about 15 seconds into the second half to win, 2-0. We had chances to score.

Dunbar posted a 3-0 win when the Lady Bearcats "played about as bad as we can play," according to Earnest. "We were not ready to play."

Middle schoolers stay unbeaten, pound West Jessamine 24-6

From staff reports

Cobe Penny scored twice and Bryce Edmondson hit paydirt once to lead Anderson County Middle School to a 24-6 win over West Jessamine at Hollie Warford Stadium last Tuesday night. Penny scored on runs of 72 and 8 yards while Edmondson bullied his way to the goal line from four yards out.

Quarterback Tyler Peters, filling in for the injured Gunnar Gillis, connected with Blake Franklin for two passes that covered 100 yards. One went 72 yards for a score.

"Our defense also held West (second in conference standings) to no points in the first half and the only score was against second-string defensive players. We are in sole possession of first place in the conference at 4 - 0 and stand at 6 - 0 on the season," Anderson coach Brian Holloman said.

their quarterback and he is really good. Kobe Ford is an excellent running back. Chris Goodwin is a really good receiver and Lane Peavler is a really good kick returner-receiver. We have our work cut out for us."

Over the last four years, Anderson has pretty much had its way with Mercer, but Peach says the Titans have meshed well with second-year coach Chris Pardue, a former head coach at Boyle County. Pardue was an assistant at Boyle during the Rebels' run of five straight state championships. He took over for Chuck Smith, then was an assistant coach at Campbellsville University before getting the job at Mercer last year.

"Coach Pardue has settled in nicely there at Mercer," Peach said. "He has been able to match the personnel he has with his scheme very well."

Anderson will be a solid favorite, nonetheless. The Bearcats, who ascended to the No. 2 spot in Class 5A in last week's AP poll, were ranked 21st in the state overall in the Rating the State rankings, released Monday by the Lexington Herald-Leader. Anderson was fifth in Class 5A.

Mercer came in at 10th in Class 4A. Anderson was listed about 12 points better than Mercer in the computer rankings.

Peach said his team is relatively healthy. "Knock on wood," he said. "I think we are OK."

Ware, Robinson, Bryant to be remembered before game

Anderson will be honoring the memory of Bob Ware, considered by most to be the greatest player to ever play at Anderson County, and superfans Charlie Bryant and Pee

Wee Robinson before Friday's game.

Ware died of a heart attack in February, while Bryant and Robinson both succumbed to long illnesses this year.

The ceremony will take place just before the national anthem is played prior to the game, according to Anderson County athletic director Rick Sallee.

"Charlie and Pee Wee were institutions at Anderson County High School," Sallee said. "Both were loyal and supportive of our school and all the student-athletes. Visitors to our school were welcomed and always received a generous word of how we were going to beat them. They will be greatly missed."

Ware was known as a great player from 1965-68. A two-time first team all-stater and honorable mention All-American, Ware is the only Anderson football player to ever earn those distinctions. He remained a regular at Anderson football games and was a tremendous behind-the-scenes supporter. He was also a regular at many other Anderson sporting events.

"Bob was one of the most outstanding athletes to play at Anderson County," Sallee said. "He was an unbelievable competitor and helped pave the way our school is viewed as a hard-nosed, hard-working athletic program."

FOOTBALL

excited," Peach noted. "We were thrilled to be on this big stage tonight. Sometimes you get a little too excited. Sometimes you try a little too hard and sometimes those mental mistakes are going to happen."

But when Anderson finally settled in, it found it belonged. The Bearcats outgained Boyle 237-120 in the final 24 minutes. They held the ball for nearly 18 minutes over the last two quarters.

But it was not enough to overcome crucial breakdowns. Nowhere did those breakdowns rear their ugly head than on special teams, which might have been responsible for a 10-point swing. A bad snap forced Rose, in punt formation, to kick the ball through his own end zone for a safety that put Boyle up 9-7.

The teams had traded touchdowns as Boyle quarterback Josiah Robbins connected with Levi McKinney for a 20-yard scoring pass. On the ensuing kickoff, Anderson's Ross Cox went 94 yards to put things back at square one. Cox's effort was three yards short of the school record, set by Dustin Combs in 2009.

After the safety, Boyle converted the free kick with a 36-yard drive that ended with Seph Burke finding paydirt from 7 yards out, but the Bearcats answered with a nine-play, 80-yard march of their own, the first inkling of offensive life they had shown. Just before halftime, Zachary Carmichael sneaked in from a yard out to cap a drive aided by a pass interference call on third-and-8 from the Boyle 37.

Yet another bad snap forced holder Dusty Puckett to scramble on an unsuccessful conversion attempt.

The trend continued early in the third quarter. After Tristin Ashburn had given the Bearcats a 20-16 lead when he returned Seph Burke's fumble for a touchdown, Boyle struck again, getting through to block Rose's punt. Boyle took over at the four with Josiah Robbins finding the end zone on the first play. Boyle went up 23-20 and never relinquished the lead.

Still Anderson had the mettle to fight back.

The Bearcats held the ball all but 61 seconds of the fourth quarter, but a crucial mistake turned out to extend Boyle's lead beyond what the Bearcats could overcome.

After stopping Boyle on downs at the Anderson 33, the Bearcats drove to midfield, where Boyle's Mack Cox picked off a Carmichael pass, returning it to the Anderson 46. On the next play, Burke put what turned out to be the clinching points on the board with a gallop to the end zone.

Only 8:57 remained.

Just over four minutes later, however, Carmichael hit Ashburn along the left sideline to for a 27-yard score to cap an eight-play, 83-yard drive and pull Anderson within three.

Ashburn, who had attended Boyle County schools until middle school, also scored in the third quarter with a 25-yard fumble recovery that put Anderson up 20-16.

With Anderson both of its remaining timeouts and Robbins throwing an incomplete pass, the Rebels were only able to eat 37 seconds in a drive that picked up only four yards. A personal foul penalty pushed Boyle back to its own 23, but Addison Coffey's punt traveled 50 yards, forcing Anderson to start on its own 27 with 3:54 to play.

Two penalties slowed the Bearcat drive, but facing fourth-and-20 at the Boyle 36, Carmichael and Cox hooked up for a pass of 20 yards and two inches, according to the measurement at the end of the play.

On the next play, Carmichael's swing pass to Sam Laytart picked up 10 yards, but Boyle successfully kept Laytart in bounds, forcing Anderson to stop the clock with an spike.

Facing second-and-goal from the six with 11.2 seconds to play, Carmichael tried to connect with Cox in the end zone but Robbins was able to keep Cox away from the game-winner.

Anderson turned to Rose, who had been automatic during his career. Rose had hit 6-of-7 field goal attempts with is only miss coming from 39 yards. But this time, his 23-yarder hooked left, setting off a wild celebration on the Boyle sideline and looks of despair among the Bearcats.

Anderson could only think of the "what-if?"

But the Bearcats also learned the gap between the elite and Anderson County has narrowed considerably.

"They had us down 30-20 and 16-7," Peach said.

"They had some opportunities to put us away but we hung in there and continued to make plays. At the end of the game, we had the ball on the five-yard line with a chance to score.

"This loss hurts but it is certainly something we can build from and we can certainly get better from it."

How low can your home heat costs go?

Heat your whole home for far less money than fuel oil, propane, natural gas or even off-peak electric rates with a WoodMaster outdoor wood furnace. You also stay insulated from fluctuating prices of other fuel sources while dramatically lowering your costs for home heat.
